Fort Ebey State Park The North Sound Area

This solitary park offers a secluded getaway for those who want to leave the beaten path. Like several of the forts at the entrance to Puget Sount, Ebey has old gun batteries and underground passages to explore. Bring a flashlight for bet views. Also, it's a popular Puget Sound surfing spot!

Natural History.

Another of the triad of defender forts of Puget Sound. Fort Ebey, constructed in 1942, was named after the pioneer commander of the 1855 militia stationed on an island in Ebey Slough. The park stand on the site of a World Was II gun battery which had two six-inch guns in place during the war. The guns were later removed and scrapped.
