

Cascadia Water Trail Campsites

Jarrel Cove State Park The South Sound Area

Explore the side cove to the east and spot a heron rookery. Don't let the tide strand you here: the landing for the Cascadia Marine Trail becomes a mud flat at low tide. The 43-acre marine camping park has 3,500 feet of saltwater shoreline on the NW end of Harstene Island. Showers and the marina opposite make this a civilized spot.

Natural History.

The park is named after Mrs. Phoilora Jarrel, the first pioneer woman to settle on the island. Jarrel Cove was acquired by the state in four parcels between 1953 and 1969.
